

Barbara A. Dooley
President

Barbara Dooley is president of the Commercial Internet eXchange Association, the world's oldest international trade association of Internet Service Providers, whose members carry approximately $\frac{1}{3}$ of global Internet traffic. Previously, she was a strategic business consultant specializing in worldwide ISP interconnection for the engineering consulting firm, Dimension Enterprises, Herndon, Virginia, and the managing editor and publisher of the ISP industry newsletter, CIX.tra. From 1992-95 she worked in voice operations at Sprint International (now Global One).

From 1986-1992 Ms. Dooley was based in Berlin and worked as a business and research consultant specializing in Germany and Eastern Europe. In addition to her work with German companies, she performed commercial consulting services for several US-based telecommunications companies, publications, and the U.S. Embassy in East Berlin.

She received her B.A. from Brown University, an M.A. in Soviet Studies and an M.S. in Management.
